Teachers are trying their level best to engage the students scholastically and co-scholastically during this period through video lessons, online sessions, worksheets, quiz, activity sheets etc... despite constraints of net connectivity etc. As this process of teaching-learning is new for both teacher and students and challenging also, role of parents become equally important to help teachers in effective transaction. You are requested to ensure that students follow do and don'ts as defined by teachers before and during the class, they should remain focussed to teaching learning process without involving themselves in chatting unnecessarily thereby disturbing the rest of the class and finish their task in a time bound manner.

We have been receiving constant appreciation from parents for this endeavour and equipping with your appreciation, we wish to acknowledge the teachers for their hard work. Therefore an email id is created for parents to write their appreciation and constructive suggestions for these online teaching-learning process.
